Content

In consultation with the supervisor, students choose a topic for their project. A project proposal/plan is prepared and discussed at a seminar, whereupon the investigation is commenced and the work-in-progress is discussed in two consecutive seminars. The project is carried out individually or in pairs. In cases when students collaborate on a project the individual contribution and responsibility must be clearly stated from the start, and in reports and presentations. The topic is defined at a general level but the investigation can be twofold. Supervision is only provided for the course duration. Reregistered students may be offered additional supervision, if circumstances permit.
