Prerequisites

Teacher education: 60 ECTS subject course credits

Learning Outcomes

The aim of the course is that students develop an understanding of how teachers contribute to pupils' knowledge and learning and that they acquire knowledge of hindering and supporting factors in the learning process. The focus is on theoretical perspectives in the field of education and subject education. Pupils' learning is related to the social and cultural factors that impact on teaching and learning.

Upon completion of the course, students should be able to:

1. give an account of and problematise different conditions for children's, adolescents' and adults' development and learning in various environments from theoretical and experience-based perspectives on knowledge and learning,
2. give an account of and problematise how child and youth development and the conditions under which pupils grow up affect their learning processes,
3. give an account of and problematise different special education approaches to teaching and learning,
4. analyse, problematise and evaluate the use of digital tools, and
5. demonstrate communicative ability in listening, speaking and writing in ways that are both functional and adequate.

Content

The course comprises the following components:

- knowledge and skills from different theoretical perspectives, proven experience, research result and pupils' understanding,

- the effects of different social and cultural aspects, such as class, gender, sexuality, ethnicity, age, needs and maturity, on pupils' development and learning in different educational settings,
- useful digital reading resources for pupils' learning and the students' own studies,
- special needs perspectives on pupils' learning, and
- activities supporting communicative ability.
