Prerequisites

General admission requirements

Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of the course, students should be able to:

1. give an account of the basic concepts of language policy on the one hand and multilingualism on the other,
2. discuss the connection between language policy and different attitudes to language and multilingualism,
3. analyse the factors that influence code-switching and code preservation,
4. describe the prerequisites for second language acquisition in different ages,
5. give an account of and problematise the mechanics of learning a second language and how it interacts with language development and success in school, and
6. summarise, reflect on and problematise current research in the field of multilingualism.

Content

The course gives an introduction to various aspects of multilingualism among individuals and societies. This involves issues concerning linguistic variation and change, attitudes to language and language use as well as language policy. The prerequisites for second language development in different ages and how learning takes place and interacts with language development and school success are treated.
