Analysis based on course evaluation, including comments fields. If information has been collected in other ways, it should also be analysed here. Any effect of joint courses should be commented on.

The different parts in the course has its strength. Some parts needs a better structure for the whole course to be clear and successful. The strength of the group assignment was that the students learned how to construct surveys, analyze and apply theories from the literature, how to network and find relevant stakeholders to interviews. The group assignment was thus questioned due to the fact that the program students have been working in group assignments in many courses. A group assignment will not according to the students not showing their abilities to the best extent. Program students also experience that they have to guide the exchange students.

The seminars worked fine but the some students mean that the workload of the seminars often clashed with the workload of reading the course literature.

There is a challenge having students of various kind, both program students and exchange students, due to their differences in academic level, in the level of autonomy and skills in academic writing. This became visible in both the assignment as well as in the home exam.

Suggestions for changes to the next course date.

Clear instructions on what is required and expected of the project assignment. Review the possibility of turning the project assignment into an individual assignment for the students to show their individual ability.

Review instructions for the seminars with clear requirements and clear instructions for submissions of PM.

The grades for the various examinations were presented at the course introduction, but needs to be repeated at every new examination
