Analysis based on course evaluation, including comments fields. If information has been collected in other ways, it should also be analysed here. Any effect of joint courses should be commented on.

The course has run smoothly and, as far as I can tell, has been appreciated by those that have taken the course. Only one student has passed the course, which is a bit unsatisfactory. Still, I believe that many take this course not so much to receive the course points but rather to educate themselves in new technology, making it difficult to value the course.

Suggestions for changes to the next course date.

This course undergoes an update each time it is offered to keep up with recent developments in the web and its transports.
