Oral feedback from students:

Students appreciated the group assignment as they could apply theory to practice. However, a few students would have liked to have the assignment handed out earlier in the course as travelling around Christmas and New Year makes it more challenging to find group work time.

In consideration to the holidays, we will therefore hand out the assignment earlier during the course work to provide more time to work with the content of the assignment.

Students also commented that they found it challenging (risk for miscommunication) that some of their fellow students didn't turn on their cameras in Zoom during group discussions and group work. In regard to this, we will talk more about zoom etiquette and how different digital resources effects our communication.

Suggestions for changes to the next course date.
