should also be analysed here. Any effect of joint courses should be commented on.

The comments are generally very positive and reflect the feedback from the students during the course. Most of the course literature had been changed from last year and the new texts worked well. Moreover the examination was changed to include a group assignment and an oral presentation, which were valuable and appreciated parts of the course. At the end of the course we visited Värmland museum. The students wrote all of their assignments in English and the seminars were all in English.

Suggestions for changes to the next course date.

It would be valuable to add one or two lectures or workshops to the course.

1. Number of first registrations for a course: First registration = the first time a student registers for a specific course.
