Results of learning

All in all, the course was valuable for me.

Courses that were considered valuable were related to personal development, acquisition of new knowledge and skills, understanding of something. Higher ratings can refer to students' perceived development (learned a lot, and it was useful). Lower ratings can refer to scanty development of knowledge and skills or not understanding certain themes or their parts, not understanding the necessity and significance of the course, problems in the learning environment.

How likely would you be to recommend this course to a friend or colleague?

Net Promoter Score (NPS) = 0

Promoters = 0 (0%)

Passives = 1 (100%)

Detractors = 0 (0%)

The Net Promoter Score (NPS) is a metric that measures student experience and predicts the effectiveness of a course. It calculates an NPS score based on a key question using a 0-10 scale, asking how likely students would recommend the course to others. Respondents are grouped into Promoters, Passives, or Detractors based on their score, and the NPS is calculated by subtracting the percentage of Detractors from the percentage of Promoters. The NPS is a core metric for course evaluation programs and is trusted by educational institutions to engage their students and improve their learning experience performance.

Comments

Course supervisor's comments

Based on the discussion in the final session and the course evaluation, it can be said that the course was delivered in a satisfactory manner. The course literature and assignments were deemed to be appropriate, and students voiced that the podcast exercise was a great practical exercise. The outcomes of the survey-based evaluation are, however, not representative due to a low rate of participation. Finally, some students suggested rethinking the organisation of group assignments. In 2025, the groups for the first assignment will be randomly formed on Canvas and a 'group contract' will be used in all groups.
