should also be analysed here. Any effect of joint courses should be commented on.

The course suffered from the low number of students, which implied that the field-trip could not be conducted as planned and that group assignments were difficult to pursue. At the end, the course was also struck by the corona pandemic and final seminars IRL replaced by electronic submissions.

Suggestions for changes to the next course date.

No changes to the original plan seems needed.

The Handbook in Qualitative Research Methods might be replaced by another, more suitable and less expensive book.
