should also be analysed here. Any effect of joint courses should be commented on.

Free comments shows that some students expected more diversified classes and more focus on developing communication skills in class. This might partly explain the bars regarding content, examinations and personal treatment. The result might also partly be explained by the fact that the respondents spent less time on coursework than what could be expected.

Suggestions for changes to the next course date.

More diversified form of instruction.

Review class activities / homework activities.
