Course supervisor's comments

The explanation for the varying speed of study of these two students is that one of them had earlier been registered for the 50% version of the course and was now registered for the 100% to complete the thesis.

Both students are satisfied with the course overall, but one student comments on the different views of the supervisor and examiner on the structure of the thesis. This comment has not appeared before in course evaluations of this course, but it is something that I will discuss with my colleagues.
