Analysis based on course evaluation, including comments fields. If information has been collected in other ways, it should also be analysed here. Any effect of joint courses should be commented on.

This is good input. However, it's important to understand for students to learn working in a multicultural environment as well as agile methods. Almost all IT companies are using one or other form of agile methods in software and systems development projects.

Suggestions for changes to the next course date.

We will try to bring balance in the agile way of working and technical part of the project.
