Results of learning

All in all, the course was valuable for me.

Courses that were considered valuable were related to personal development, acquisition of new knowledge and skills, understanding of something. Higher ratings can refer to students' perceived development (learned a lot, and it was useful). Lower ratings can refer to scanty development of knowledge and skills or not understanding certain themes or their parts, not understanding the necessity and significance of the course, problems in the learning environment.

How likely would you be to recommend this course to a friend or colleague?

Net Promoter Score (NPS) = NaN

Promoters = 0 (NaN%) Passives = 0 (NaN%) Detractors = 0 (NaN%)

The Net Promoter Score (NPS) is a metric that measures student experience and predicts the effectiveness of a course. It calculates an NPS score based on a key question using a 0-10 scale, asking how likely students would recommend the course to others. Respondents are grouped into Promoters, Passives, or Detractors based on their score, and the NPS is calculated by subtracting the percentage of Detractors from the percentage of Promoters. The NPS is a core metric for course evaluation programs and is trusted by educational institutions to engage their students and improve their learning experience performance.

Comments

Course supervisor's comments

This course is no longer part of the first semester of the master's programme in IS. It was offered as an individual course. One exchange student started the course but de-registered as he found out that he could not have all KAU credits this semester transferred to his home university why he opted out from the course where there were no other students. Next year this course might be offered if some 2nd-year master programme students are interested.
