Results of learning

All in all, the course was valuable for me.

Courses that were considered valuable were related to personal development, acquisition of new knowledge and skills, understanding of something. Higher ratings can refer to students' perceived development (learned a lot, and it was useful). Lower ratings can refer to scanty development of knowledge and skills or not understanding certain themes or their parts, not understanding the necessity and significance of the course, problems in the learning environment.

How likely would you be to recommend this course to a friend or colleague?

Net Promoter Score (NPS) = 0

Promoters = 0 (0%)

Passives = 2 (100%)

Detractors = 0 (0%)

The Net Promoter Score (NPS) is a metric that measures student experience and predicts the effectiveness of a course. It calculates an NPS score based on a key question using a 0-10 scale, asking how likely students would recommend the course to others. Respondents are grouped into Promoters, Passives, or Detractors based on their score, and the NPS is calculated by subtracting the percentage of Detractors from the percentage of Promoters. The NPS is a core metric for course evaluation programs and is trusted by educational institutions to engage their students and improve their learning experience performance.

Comments

Course supervisor's comments

This course is stable and has been running with only incremental changes during the past few years. Pass rate at the ordinary exam was just over 90% of all students who actually wrote the exam, and 80% of all students registered for the exam. A recurring issue is that the course is open for exchange students, and most years some exchange apply. However, course schedules seems to clash (which the International Office does not seem to be aware of when they suggest courses) and no international students attend. Not only is this poor service to the students, it also means we "overdimension" courses by about 15% with is an issue when availability of lecture rooms is limited.
