Analysis based on course evaluation, including comments fields. If information has been collected in other ways, it should also be analysed here. Any effect of joint courses should be commented on.

I am pleased to read that prior modifications to the course materials and the way they were lectured have improved students' reception and engagement. I am also pleased to read that assignments were effective to allow students to try what they have learned during the class. Besides my modifications, it is also fair to mention that students during this offering were wonderful and dedicated. I am sure that was a great factor for this success.

Suggestions for changes to the next course date.

Unfortunately, I will not teach this course again, but I will inform the next colleague who is going to teach the course about my suggestions, including, modification of A2.
