should also be analysed here. Any effect of joint courses should be commented on.

Only three students participated in this evaluation, and their views were mixed. We elaborated on key aspects of the structure this term to be able to benefit from the presence of visiting researchers, an international conference and a public art event that students were invited to attend. As a lecturer, I thought that this energized discussions and worked to improve the results, but I also realized that some students experienced a legitimate confusion.

Suggestions for changes to the next course date.

Next term, this course will be back on track, with some minor revisions of the reading list.
