should also be analysed here. Any effect of joint courses should be commented on.

There were some complaints on the the first lectures not illustrating the problems discussed. (These are well illustrated in the course book.) There was also some problem with scheduling due to various reasons. Very few students turned up to various mentoring sessions for their essay writing.

Suggestions for changes to the next course date.

More emphasis on students' own writing and also to follow the course through the course literature and the instructions given.
