General Information

The Master Programme in Social Work aims to equip students for independent analysis and development of social work to enhance their competence and ability to take on more qualified tasks in an area of practice. The programme is an opportunity for continuing professional development and specialisation in different areas of social work, such as work with children, youth, and families; addiction; the elderly; gender and violence, and migration. Student will specialise in quantitative and qualitative research methodology. There is an emphasis on critical analysis and judgement and the ability to independently plan, execute, and present an academic project that is firmly rooted in theory and methodology. The Master Programme in Social Work also serves as a stepping stone for students who wish to move on to third-cycle studies.

Programme Outcomes

Degree of Master (60 ECTS credits)

National outcomes

Independent project (degree project)

A requirement for the award of a Degree of Master (120 credits) is completion by the student of an independent project (degree project) for at least 30 credits in the main field of study. The degree project may comprise less than 30 credits, however no less than 15 credits, if the student has already completed an independent project in the second cycle for at least 15 credits in the main field of study or the equivalent from a programme of study outside Sweden.

Programme Structure

The study rate for mandatory courses is 50% of full-time and the programme structure is open, which allows for significant student customisation in terms of profile and study rate. The first semester comprises the mandatory courses of Theories of Social Work, 7.5 ECTS credits, and Methods of Social Science, 7.5 ECTS credits. In the second semester, students write an independent project for 15 ECTS credits. Provided all requirements have been met, students can then either graduate with a Degree of Master (60 ECTS credits) or continue towards a Degree of Master (120 ECTS credits). For students who opt to continue, the third semester comprises the mandatory course Advanced Course in Methods of Social Science, 7.5 ECTS credits. In the fourth semester, students will write another independent project for 15 ECTS credits. In addition, students have the opportunity to adapt their profile and specialise in Social Work or broaden their qualifications with alternative courses. The specialisation range at Karlstad University reflects the discipline's three research tracks: Critical Welfare Studies, Studies on Health and Social Vulnerability at Individual and Group Level, and Applied Welfare Studies. Optional course selection and study planning is done in consultation with the study and career counsellor or programme coordinator. More information about individual courses is available in the respective course syllabus.
