General Information

The Master Programme in Political Science is designed to provide in-depth knowledge of concepts, analytical methods and research traditions in political science. On the basis of the classic divisions of fields in political science – political theory, public politics and administration, policy analysis and international politics – the courses offer research-based and substantially deepened knowledge in these fields, including a focus on the potentials and limitations of science and its role in politics and society. In addition, there are opportunities for students to specialise in a number of central political science issues, for instance, the importance of critical perspectives on power in relation to gender, ethnicity, and class, societal changes linked to climate and the environment, and new forms of political organisation from a transnational perspective with special emphasis on the EU. Programme courses highlight the importance of theory, methodology and methods to understand, clarify and analyse power and politics. Students' independent research and investigative and analytical skills are also enhanced in the planning, completing and presenting of a research project firmly based in theory and appropriate method.

The combination of disciplinary depth and social science broadening provides a solid basis for developing the knowledge, skills and abilities required to make advanced analyses of societal issues and complex problems from a political science perspective with a social science approach. In this way, programme students not only prepare for doctoral studies, but also for independent investigative and development work and project leadership and management.

Learning Outcomes

Master's Degree (120 credits)

Knowledge and understanding

For a Degree of Master of Arts/Science (120 credits) students shall

1. demonstrate knowledge and understanding in the main field of study, including both broad knowledge of the field and a considerable degree of specialised knowledge in certain areas of the field as well as insight into current research and development work, and
2. demonstrate specialised methodological knowledge in the main field of study.

Competence and skills

For a Degree of Master of Arts/Science (120 credits) students shall

3. demonstrate the ability to critically and systematically integrate knowledge and analyse, assess and deal with complex phenomena, issues and situations even with limited information,
4. demonstrate the ability to identify and formulate issues critically, independently and creatively as well as to plan and, using appropriate methods, undertake advanced tasks within predetermined time frames and so contribute to the formation of knowledge as well as the ability to evaluate this work,
5. demonstrate the ability in speech and writing, in national as well as in international contexts, to report clearly and discuss their conclusions and the knowledge and arguments on which they are based, in dialogue with different audiences, and
6. demonstrate the skills required for participation in research and development work or independent employment in some other qualified capacity.

Judgement and approach

For a Degree of Master of Arts/Science (120 credits) students shall

7. demonstrate the ability to make assessments in the main field of study informed by relevant disciplinary, social and ethical issues and also to demonstrate awareness of ethical aspects of research and development work,
8. demonstrate insight into the possibilities and limitations of research, its role in society and the responsibility of the individual for how it is used, and
9. demonstrate the ability to identify the personal need for further knowledge and take responsibility for their ongoing learning.

Independent project (degree project)

A requirement for the award of a Degree of Master of Arts/Science (120 credits) is completion of an independent project (degree project) for at least 30 credits in the main field of study. The degree project may comprise less than 30 credits, however no less than 15 credits, if the student has already completed an independent project in the second cycle for at least 15 credits in the main field of study or the equivalent from a programme of study outside Sweden.

Master's Degree (60 credits)

Knowledge and understanding

For a Degree of Master of Arts/Science (60 credits) students shall

1. demonstrate knowledge and understanding in the main field of study, including both an overview of the field and specialised knowledge in certain areas of the field as well as insight into current research and development work, and
2. demonstrate specialised methodological knowledge in the main field of study.

9. demonstrate the ability to identify the personal need for further knowledge and take responsibility for their ongoing learning.

Independent project (degree project)

A requirement for the award of a Degree of Master of Arts/Science (60 credits) is completion by the student of an independent project (degree project) for at least 15 credits in the main field of study.

Programme Structure

The first semester offers required courses in political science, and the second semester covers political science methodology and methods, followed by the recommended courses in Gender and Politics and Environmental Politics, or optional courses in other subjects or other universities. In semester 3, students have the opportunity to study abroad, or at other universities in Sweden, offering a possibility to broadening the focus of the program. Students opting for a more professional profile can choose practical placement in the Swedish Parliament, the EU administration or more locally at Karlstad municipality or Region Värmland. Political Science also offers courses in Theory of Science and on EU studies. Courses offered at doctoral level are sometimes open to master-level students.
